Project Information

Location: Inglewood, CA
Architect: HKS
GC: Turner | AECOM/Hunt JV
Glass Mfr: GlasPro & Pulp Studios
Completion: July 2020
Scope: Spanning more than three million square feet with a seating capacity of up to 100,000, SoFi Stadium in Inglewood, Calif., is the largest in the NFL. Home to the Los Angeles Rams and the Los Angeles Chargers football teams, this massive mixed-use sports and entertainment venue also marks the biggest commercial railing project ever undertaken by Trex Commercial Products, which custom designed and engineered an unprecedented 73,000 linear feet of railing for the facility.

Trex Commercial Products' railing can be found inside and outside the state-of-the-art, amenity-rich stadium - from the seating bowl and suites to the concourse and vomitorium areas, as well as the monument stairs and canyons on each side of the facility. The equivalent of 14 miles of railing were custom designed, developed and deployed for this project, including nine different styles in 125 different configurations. Cable, glass, aisle and cane rail in sleek, sturdy aluminum complement the stadium's contemporary architecture, while drink rails add convenient function to VIP, ADA and standing spectator areas.

A distinguishing aspect of this project is the strategic integration of LED lighted rail. More than 5,000 linear feet of multi-line LED Aisle Rail add safety and ambiance to the massive seating bowl area. Combined with 3,000 linear feet of LED Site Rail, SoFi Stadium features the most LED railing Trex Commercial Products has used in any project.

More than 10,000 design hours, 13,000 production hours and a continuous crew of installers were required to outfit the nearly 14 miles of Trex Commercial Products' railing featured both inside and outside SoFi Stadium.
